SPECIES TRANSITION

INTRODUCTION

Species Transitioning is a process through which non-human identifying individuals take acts to make their physical appearance, self-image, or mannerisms more akin to species they align themselves with. This can help to alleviate species dysphoria or help to boost the self-image of the individual.

PHYSICAL TRANSITION

Physical ways in which non-humans can align more with their species.

CLOTHES

Wearing clothes that match your kintype can be a fun way to get more in tune with your kintype. This can be done by wearing clothes that have colors or patterns reminiscent of your kintype, perhaps faux fur if your kin has it.

MASKS/TAILS/OTHER GEAR

This Somewhat serves as an extension of the last point. Wearing gear made to emulate to appearance of your kintype can obviously help you appear more like them.

MAKEUP/TATTOOS

Stylized makeup to make you resemble your kintype can be a great help in species transition. Tattoos resembling features of your kintype or even simply tattoos of your kintype can also be valuable for making you feel more like your kintype.

HORMONES/VITAMINS

Biotin can help aid in nail/claw growth. Cleaning under your nails/claws and using them lots will also help them grow back stronger.

Oils can help propagate hair growth in certain areas. Lavalced short for “Lavender, Almond, and Cedar(wood) oil is recommended by fellow non-human Clowncary. I can not speak on the effectiveness of this as I have no real experience with it.

FANGSMITHING

Fangsmithing is creating molds that fit over your teeth this can be done by yourself or professionally done.
